what's there at the door that changed my life without a simple reason why feel another afternoon split my poor broken heart in two it's not a friend that you and I throwing needles at the sky march with friends that's you today put them on and walked away

I walked away
I walked away
I walked away

you laughed the while you kissed my head talk about the time we spent picking arms up from the sand sure to never never land in the middle of my story fuel the bed to keep you warm lie around and beat my head feed the cactus, i'm instead get lost instead

get lost instead

the end....
the end!
