

Fordirelifesake

"We Are The Company We Keep"

Visit "We Are The Company We Keep" on MotoLyrics.com

And now I think I understand your plans. You'd rather have an audience than listen when I need you. listen, when it really matters. Don't you let your lines come crossed time and again? Do you remember when loyalty meant something? Because I still do. and theres a few of you that I can still give in to, when I've seen you grow, when I've seen you fall apart. All the things I used to know, im destined to forget. Now I've watched you fall apart. All the things you'll never know, ill try not to forget. And when our heart awakes I too will kill it off, and if the weather fits we'll witness her hurt. Those memories make us complete. It's the way, I wish you still could be. But the rest of you are so fucking codependent or chemically confined. I cannot seem to forget those days memories make us complete. It's the way I wish you still could be all the time. All you have to do is get up for one more time. And not to feed another addiction. Don't let your lines come crossed.

Visit Fordirelifesake page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.