It's everyday it's anything and everything and nothing
Cynical and absolute still searching for a meaning
You're taking me to places you've taken me before
All I ever want from you was always something more

This all points to something

So don't mistake this smile for something better
This speaks of insincerity forever
A world lost, a harsh reality
Another clue reveals the face of this mystery

It all points to something

When it comes it's all or nothing

CHORUS:

Broken/ By the weight of all that's crashing
Falling/ Cannot grasp the hand that I see
Broken/ Can I find a reason for this
In you, in me

Something on the inside breaking me
Breathing in the water, drowning me
In a place of solace you're waiting
One more time, response is fading

It all points to something
When it comes it's all or nothing
