You walk away
Like there is nothing left to say
You turn away
When I know you'll be back someday

Holding onto a smile
Everyone can see right through
A pretty little face that has never failed to get you too

She's a falling star
She's never too far away
To pick up all the pieces you've left behind

When falling out of line

All cast away
Her majesty has lost the play
A broken crown is falling down a silent dream is a silent crowd

Everyone can see right through
A pretty little face that has never failed to get you too

They've gone away
It's over her game
