Buried in truth
A story
Of two young lives
Just waiting for the key
To Open, To Open
The door right in front of them
To a world un-parallel and solely for them

The way she laughs
Is how the story lies, the story lies
And they will tell you for flawless nights
Well, they felt so free
There is nothing missing
From that story

Everything is better now
Now that they can breathe
Overlooked and faded out
That's what you'll be
We're ready and in control
Never the less were effortlessly flying

The way she laughs
Is how the story lies, the story lies
And they will tell you for flawless nights
Well, they felt so free
There is nothing missing
From that story

The way we looked
At each other that night
We knew it was meant to be
It just felt so right

The way we looked
At each other that night
We knew it was meant to be
It just felt so right
It just felt so right

The way we looked
At each other how the story lies,

the story lies
And they will tell you for flawless nights
Well, they felt so free
There is nothing missing
From that story
