This is the east coast

Not the west coast

In case you didn't know

We are through

'Cause all that we had was lost

'Cause all that we had was lost

Give us our summer to start back over

Give us the love that we all once had

And take back the winter that stole all our color

Give us the love that we all once had

This is you tearing in two

In so many pieces that I don't know what to do

So pull this together and let's keep us forever

And I'll know exactly what we're going to do

'Cause all that we had was lost

'Cause all that we had was lost

Give us our summer to start back over

Give us the love that we all once had

And take back the winter that stole all our color

Give us the love that we all once had

A symphony of sounds that will never save you

But I'll try to prove to you

That love is so real with every word I say

And the things I conceal

(Let's stay young

Let's keep the taste of gin on our tongues

Let us love)

Let's keep the fear of our hearts being crushed

(Let us starve)

Let's take the chance to taste the sin of lust

(Let us sing)

As if the world belongs to only us

Give us our summer to start back over

Give us the love that we all once had

And take back the winter that stole all our color

Give us the love that we all once had
