It's hard for you to find the words
That show the way you feel
But it's not hard to know
When your love is fake or if it's real

With a little love we will rise above
You can count on me
With a little love we will rise above
With a little love

I'd like to make this solemn vow
After all I've said
I'd never be some black cloud
That hangs above your head

With a little love we will rise above
You can count on me
With a little love we will rise above
With a little love

Love, love, love
Love, love, love
Love, love, love
Love, love, love

With a little love we will rise above
You can count on me
With a little love we will rise above
With a little love

With a little love we will rise above
You can count on me
With a little love we will rise above
With a little love

With a little love we will rise above
You can count on me
With a little love we will rise above
With a little love, love
