Hold on, there's a hole in my heart
Everyone can see right through me
It goes all the way to the waves
Where my love she tried to wash it away

See, she breaks for the summers
So she can find lovers, she treats them like a bottles of wine
They make you dinner and they sing you to sleep
But by the mornin' find the bottle is empty

'Cause she never gives it the time
Every bottle she finds they don't compare
To the ones she left behind, there is never a note
So she waits for me to come back home

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
You wish that smoke could change its color on
I love it when you talk so much
And act like nothin' went wrong

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
We sit and find flaws in everyone
I want to keep you by my side
Holdin' off tidal waves

Mint car is keepin' us warm
She lays crossed upon the bed
We are puzzles making shapes with our hands
I take my finger turn into a pen

Then I run my hand down your spine
You guess, I wrote somethin' profound
Something like
"Our love will last 'til we die"

I say, "You're good at this game
But what I really wrote is How I've yet to be saved"

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
You wish that smoke could change its color on

I love it when you talk so much
And act like nothin' went wrong

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
We sit and find flaws in everyone
I want to keep you by my side
Holdin' off tidal waves

I'm searchin' for a dead end song
You wish that smoke could change its color on
I want to get you up by my side

I'm searchin' for a dead end song
We sit and find flaws in everyone
I want to get you up by my side

A dead end song
You wish that smoke could change its color on
I love it when you talk so much
You act like nothin' went wrong

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
We sit and find flaws in everyone
I want to keep you right by my side
Holdin' off tidal waves

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
You wish that smoke could change its color on
I love it when you talk so much
You act like nothin' went wrong

I'm lookin' for a dead end song
We sit and find flaws in everyone
I want to keep you by my side
Holdin' off tidal waves
