The medicine for your bleeding forehead

Could be the the meteor that forecasts all your problems

And if you care to view the open-planned solutions

You'll see a crosshair round you

Don't be asleep when the dreams are forecast

Don't be awake when all the silence turns to golden pieces of a melody

All carved from fallen nuggets of  $\text{Fe}_2 + \text{S}_2$

I saw the light

It's magnified

By all the lenses made of tears you cried

Not black or white

Not rich or sour

It's hard to tell between the minutes, hours

Or days betwixt your million failings

A lonely candle can't propel the light

Between the walls of diseased attraction

When all that clings to them is glutinous help.

One in a million

Was the chance we had

Put yourself down

Walk away!

Walk away!

You can't escape from the guns that you praised

You can't describe the feelings you hide

And the message is clear

From the solar complexus

You can't describe the feelings you hide

Another corner can't be carved in the tunnel

As the mountain's falling down

Sap bleeds from the belly of the tree

As the niche is carved it falls down

Another corner can't be carved in the tunnel

As the mountain's falling down

I saw the light

It's magnified

By all the lenses made of tears you cried

Don't fall apart

Stay tied at least

Just keep a diagram of all your seams

Please don't forget that the mind is lethargic

And store the diagram in perfect time

Take great pains to avoid all of the sand

That trickles through the fingers of your head

And poisons your mind

Give me wall!

A shattered ghoul, you'll hurl the mountain
Across the edge of fratricide
A shattered ghoul, you'll hurl the mountain
Until I've got nowhere to hide, hide, hide.
A shattered ghoul, you'll hurl the mountain
Across the edge of fratricide
Of fratricide!
A shattered ghoul, you'll hurl the mountain
Until I've got nowhere to hide, hide, hide.
A shattered ghoul, you'll hurl the mountain
Across the edge of fratricide
