Life served me a verdict with an open hand. Full force across my face, then Walked away.

Please don't leave me in this dark place, cause I don't know how much Longer I can fight back these tears or keep from driving my fists through
The walls I swear are closing in.

Sentenced myself with the selfish things I say, promises I break, and the Way I refuse to let anyone in. Please let me make my amends. I'll do Anything. Anything.

Just don't leave me in this dark place.
Begging, pleading, down on my knees, asking for redemption.

So dig in your nails as I push you away.

Let me make my amends for always keeping you at arms length.
Let me apologize for every wrong I have yet to right.
You are the blood in my veins, my strength, so please don't leave me in This dark place.

Please give me just one more chance.
Just one more chance.
Please don't leave me.
