You'll be up late tonight tonight, taking me for granted plastered and worthless.

Another silent moment with your breath upon my neck means another night together with the boy you'd hate to wreck.

Perfect smiles and perfect hands that fit a perfect way
make images that flood my veins.

Just so you know I'll be down and out, like a half hearted romance meant to last.

You'll be up late tonight tonight taking me for granted
plastered

and worthless, with the boys that don't know your name.

You're taking me for granted, you're taking me for granted.

Make a wish make a wish lets make this happen.

Re-runs never looked so good.

Perfect smiles and perfect hands that fit a perfect way
make images that flood my veins.

Just so you know, I'll be down and out, like a half
hearted romance meant to last.

You'll be up late tonight tonight, taking me for granted
plastered

and worthless with the boys that don't know your name.

You're taking me for granted, your taking me for granted.

The only thing in focus is the way my heart tends to race, falling the only option left for me to take.

You'll be up late tonight tonight taking me for granted.
your taking me for granted.
