sometimes the voices in my head start to laugh... i think of you instead but the jokes, bury me in the sand and i choke and lose all your feeling i want to walk to the bridge that you always said you'd jump off if things ever get real bad but i stop... for fearing that if i did get to the top i'd follow you

if the stars came down in a million showers and i made a wish that could truly flower and bloom over you would you take your new life and give something from
it
instead of a lie and a broken promise i'm here..... if you care do you care?

earthquakes throw me right out of bed these fakes in the land of the living dead i'd make a run for it but instead i stay i secretly love it what did you say? was it me you were laughing at?
you gave us hope, turned around, then you took it back i want to know was it worth it? i've got to know was it worth it?

if the stars came down in a million showers
it
i'm here..... if you care
do you care?
