

Foxy Brown

"A Black Man's Breakfast"

Visit "A Black Man's Breakfast" on MotoLyrics.com

I think it was a Sunday morning, clouds in the skies
Smiles on the faces of people walking by.

There was no reason to be sad
No reason to complain.

If you saw the sunrise, you'd probably understand a little more.

I can't wait
To be introduced to the only one that matters.

Say that you love me
Say they you're mine
Say that you'll be there 'til the end.

There were cracks in the streets
And oceans between us
I saw lights in your hair
It's a lazy summer day.

I've got two plane tickets
Two plane tickets to Paris
I've got two plane tickets
Two plane tickets right outta town.

I will always wait for you
And I'll divide the ocean in two
So you can a path to me
I will always wait.

Visit Foxy Brown page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.