It's always like this, people i know read many books and save every dream, with all of their hope buried inside, somewhere

And somewhere a man cries for his love a love that is lost, that withered too soon with all of his hope buried inside, somewhere

Shouldn't have to be like that

So all you can say is we need more time to get through the things that need to be said, with all our trust buried inside, somewhere

And even if it takes a lifetime of trust to build something strong, what happens to us with all our faith buried inside, somewhere
