"Away Away"

You don't have to say a word
You are lost in your own world
And are you talking to these walls
To make me seem worse
Or to make yourself feel better
About it all

You will never know yourself
'Cause everything you love you left burning in hell
And you're a waste of life
But I know you mean well
And I'm dying to make this better
From anyone else

We can try to get along but we know we can't know we can't
I hear your only voices
And I know that I am where I should be
Away away, away from here

I don't feel at home in this place
And everyone who's listening can see how I've changed
But maybe if your friends can be so easily replaced
And you're looking for something better
But I wont be here
No I wont be here

And are you looking for someone better
Are they all whispering in your ear

We can try to get along but we know we can't know we
I'll hear your lonely voices
And I know that I am where I should be Away away, away

We can try to get along but we know we can't know we
I hear your only voices
And I know that I am where I should be

Away away, away from

I can feel the lonely ones circling around my [fingers?]
There is nothing I can say that will make you all believe me in
I know that you wont change your ways

I can feel the lonely ones circling around my [fingers?]
There is nothing I could say
That would make you all believe in me
I know that you wont change your ways
I will get away from here

We can try to get along but we know we can't know we
I hear your only voices
And I know that I am where I should be
Away away, away from here
