The days and weeks just pass me by and just like you I let them fly

Time's growing tired, I'm growing old, time's passing by, or so I'm told

Those days when you are feeling low, nowhere to run, nowhere to go

Nights without love, no-one to hold, time's passing by,
or so I'm told

But if someone would take my hand, perhaps they'd make me understand

Someone would come like in a dream to show me what I've never seen

To teach what I've never known and tell me what a day can mean

But no-one comes to change the scene, my body's tired, I'm feeling cold

The nights grow long, the day is old, time's Passing by,
or so I'm told.
