Have you ever felt trapped by your surroundings? and emotionally you can't get away the thoughts are forever grinding and it keeps getting harder every day have you ever thought there was no way out of the misery that plagues you in every way? like a roller coaster that keeps going around do you always feel like there is a hole in your heart? left unsatisfied no matter how you fill it? left feeling more empty than you did from the start and you wonder where in this world you fit is there an end to the cycle yes there is but you gotta know it comes from a relationship one in God and in God alone
