I thought I should reply
It's what you said
And parts of me are always with you
That's why it was so hard to forget
And when we spoke on an easy night
So many months ago
You said you will always worry but you had to let me go
So sorry I'm tryin to change my past
Can you give me just one more minute
How I lost the time but I always seem to put you in it

However hard it was sometimes
You seem to know the words and hum the lines
To songs that make your heart so sore
Maybe I should write one more
Where you won't just bring me back one time
To hide so many truths then move from me
And back to him and leave me like this fool

I'm sorry I'm tryin to change my past
Can you give me just one more minute
How I lost the time but I always seem to put you in it

A thought of mine that's all we were
For you are in emptiness are persons
Seems to be boy BS your boy
So sorry I'm tryin to change the past
Can you give me just one more minute
How I lost my time but I always seem to put you in it
So sorry I'm tryin to change the past
Can you give me just one more minute
How I lost my time but I always seem to put you in it

Thought you should reply
So hear these words I say
I know I will always worry
When you so easily let me stray
