I used to have a home with a room and a bed,
A porch and a driveway and a big garage.
But I traded it in, I kept some faith,
Laid my head down every night.
And it seems so far away, seems so far away.
Remember me now, 'cause things always change.
Five long years are gone.
I've done some time, sleeping where I fall,
I know I'll never be the same. (x2)
I learned some things about the places i saw,
I learned some things about myself.
Guess I learned the hard way,
Now I know what counts.
I've got one prayer, it's in your confidance.
I know all the places I don't want to be.
Everyone's gone, there's no one, just me.
Remember me now, 'cause things always change.
Five long years are gone.
I've done some time, sleeping where I fall,
I know I'll never be the same. (x2)
Remember me next time I go away
For the first time in my life, I wanna stay.
I could count on one hand, here today,
The only things that matter to me anyway.
And it seems so far away,
Seems so far away.
Remember me now, 'cause things always change.
Five long years are gone.
I've done some time, sleeping where I fall,
I know I'll never be the same. (x2)
