(carla norton, s. drinkwater, j. gamache) tonight I came here on my own but will I have to leave alone the music starts, I move my feet I lost my love but found the beat the lights, the sound, I have no fear and then the smoke it fills the air a splash of pink a beam of blue then I see you

but are we dancing in a dream or is it just the smoke machine we know this is where we belong dancing to our favorite songs is this your usual routine or is it just the drum machine that makes me want to stay all night
'cause if you ask me to I might the strobe lit up your perfect face when I turned 'round you'd left no trace you disappeared into the crowd I disappeared into the cloud the lights, the sound, I turn and stare and still the smoke it fills the air a splash of green, a beam of blue then I see you, again

or is it just the smoke machine
or is it just the drum machine
that makes me want to stay all night

the smoke pours down from high above I can just make out your silhouette I'm not looking out for love let's live tonight with no regrets there's more dancing to be done and now you're walking back over to me the sounds are loud, the night is young no better time, no better place, there's nowhere else that I'd rather be

(is this your usual routine)
(or is it just a drum machine)
(or is it just the smoke machine) (2x)
(dancing to our favorite songs)

that makes me want to stay all night

are we dancing in a dream or is it just the smoke machine
