You taught me to re-align my chakra,
speak to my inner consciousness.
You made me listen to John Butler and other rubbish that bored me to shit You wanted to move up the North Coast where everthing is so much better Where you can play Djembes on the beach
I used to get mad
I used to get angry
I used to hate everyone i met
You taught me love
You showed me kindness
You painted flowers on my face
And that gave me the shits Fuck i hated that but it taught me a valuable lesson too
Now i love everyone but you
We had mushrooms in the morning
I was braindead for eternity
I took my clothes off you didn't like that and neither did the check-out chick from coles i tried to pash the store security
I used to get mad
I used to get angry
I used to be cynical i know

You taught me love
You taught me yoga
You threw the fire around my head.
And that gave me the shits
Fuck i hated that
but it taught me a valuable lesson too
Now i love everyone but you
You wont make me live with no shoes.
Now every full moon i think of last year and when we went to the bush doof party And how the acid made the music worse.
I know she had a good heart when she stood in front of trees.
But she talked out her arse she could see me aura turning bad.

And that gave me the shits
Fuck i hated that everyone else i know thanks you.
Now i love everyone but you
I passively resist your coup.
