I never felt bad lending a hand
I think you hoped I wouldn't be in a band
Broken ashtray I can always replace
I kick the door then I spit in your face

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again
You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again

I dream of sunsets with a drink in the sand
Of all my friends and losing money in the van
Remember holidays that weren't such a waste
And a broken jaw from a punch in the face

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again
You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again

Picture perfect with a frame that pretends
To be a martyr for a cause with no end
I was thinking that you needed a break
What I meant was every bone in your face

A mental photo of discolored eyes
Of dirty carpets and moistened thighs
These recollections I will keep to the end
And I'm sure it's wrong that you were never my friend

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again
You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again
You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever my friend

And you are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again
You are not my friend, you are not my friend
Never ever ever again

You are not my friend, you are not my friend
You are not my friend, never ever ever again
You are not my friend, you are not my friend
