Are you ready for this?
Every boy put a pen in your hand
Write some lyrics that are meaningless
Cause don't forget that appearance
Is so primary in a scene like this

It may be time for a change
With all these bands it all sounds so cliché?
But why stray when cliché is the way that pays?

What the hell happened to a melody?
We don't need to scream about anything
Cause we can sing perfectly fine

(Sing it like the first time)

Are you ready for this?
Every boy put a pen in your hand
Write some lyrics that are meaningless

If it's not cool to like us
No, don't like us
You better jump off the bandwagon
Before we're in

You can't tear us apart
We'll sell out
Before you even know who we are
(

Are you ready for this?
Every boy put a pen in your hand
Write some lyrics that are meaningless
Cause don't forget that appearance
Is so primary in a scene
(In a scene) like this

I write songs
Not for applause
And not because
It makes these girls lose their mind

But for deeper meaning
Perhaps I am dreaming
I won't deny
I do this all to get us signed!

Are you ready for this?
Every boy put a pen in your hand
Write some lyrics that are meaningless
And don't forget

And maybe it's me
I'm sick of this industry
With this out-of-key mentality
Artist's are using frequently

But don't fight
At least not yet
We may be into the scene
But at least we do this honestly

Are you ready?
Are you ready?
Are you ready?
