She tossed a coin into the well
She kept on wishing while it fell
Crossed her fingers and closed her eyes
A shooting star out in the night
She ran with the moon, she ran with the night
No matter where she went he's out of sight
She ran with the heaviest carried load
She ran like hell on a winding road
All those happy moments that they used to share before
Yesterday they crashed right to the floor
The pile of clothes, the dishes, the house was just a mess
They kept on fighting, kept on shouting
And he walked out in a rage
For Valentines Day, Valentines Day, Valentines Day
A walkout in a rage for Valentines Day
Love is good and love is kind
But love is cruel and love is blind
When everyday-life was coming around
They lost their heads and they started to drown
She tossed a coin into the well
She kept on wishing while it fell
Crossed her fingers and closed her eyes
A shooting star out in the night
All the happy moments that they used to share before
Yesterday they crashed right to the floor
Hes starting moving backwards, in regret to kill the pain
And there he's standing with his flowers,
And he's begging in the rain
For Valentines Day, Valentines Day, Valentines Day
A prayer in the rain for Valentines Day
