I see you come out of a strobe, you come out of a strobe

We stop and try to catch some breath, we try to catch some breath

I lost it, I can't remember that

We mean well but it never does (one two three four)

And after all this time who would've thought I'd meet you here?

And after all this time who would've thought I'd meet
you here?

I heard you got somebody new, you got somebody new But what made you think of coming back? You got me coming back

I held you, I can remember that

The walk home, we stood out in the cold

And after all this time who would've thought I'd meet
you here?

And after all this time who would've thought I'd meet
you here?

And you melt white snow before you let me know

And after all this time who would've thought I'd meet
you here?
