"Danger Us"

I've heard a couple things about you.
So far they seem to be true.
It's a fact, and in-fact you can't deny all the things
That you've done and the times you've lied.
So try not be rude.
I wont stand to be fooled.
It's a fact, and in-fact you think you have it made.
Because you, you think you're fine.

(Well not fine enough)

So just show me what you got, and we'll just go from there.
I'm placing all my bets on you to somehow disappear
With all the lies you put us through.
Your voice just sings to a slower rhythm compared to
what we do,
But we know your a danger to us, but that's what makes
us DANGER US to you.

So when the clock strikes ten.
I never want to see you again.
Say goodbye, and you'll try to make it by,
With the medals that you've won that have made you cry.
Take this paper and pen,
And apologize to your friends.
It's a fact, and in-fact you think you have it made.
Because you, you think you're fine.

(Well not fine enough)

So just show me what you got, and we'll just go from
there.
I'm placing all my bets on you to somehow disappear
With all the lies you put us through.
Your voice just sings to a slower rhythm compared to
what we do,
But we know your a danger to us, but that's what makes
us DANGER US to you.

Our friends have got our back.

You know your a danger to us.

These tales have gone right through us.

These moments will never seem to fade.
