I know you've got this question on your mind.
Does every story have an end with a perfect place and time?
Well I need for you to be real strong.
Because I'm hoping for a second chance,
A second chance so I can prove you wrong.

It's Friday night, Let's go out and let's grab a drink.
Throw a hoodie on. Come on.
We could think for hours, how perfect our lives could be.
You've never been aware of all these situations.
I'll show you the signs, girl stop the hesitation,
It brings me down, that you won't come with me.
So come on now baby.

Girl you look too damn good to stay inside all night.
So I'll make a move on you, Decide exactly what you
want me to do.
Girl you look too damn good to stay inside all night.
So I'll make a escape route through, the second story
window just for you.

Well I know, that I'm losing self-control
And we're never going back to this town again.
But you see, to me, I was only being self-consciously aware
To my surroundings when you fell.
We're going straight to... Hello Sheriff.

Girl you look too damn good to stay inside all night.
So I'll make a move on you, Decide exactly what you
want me to do.
Girl you look too damn good to stay inside all night.
So I'll make a escape route through, the second story
window just for you.

I know it hurts when your away.
Close your eyes, and imagine that you're here to stay.

Girl you look too damn good to stay inside all night.

So I'll make a move on you, Decide exactly what you
want me to do.
Girl you look too damn good to stay inside all night.
So I'll make a escape route through, the second story
window just for you.
