I could never compromise my concept of truth just to make myself more comfortable or to hide inside my youth but i swear i feel something real and i surrender any quest to understand it or demand their be an answer to my guess

It's in the air
it's like a temple for me to kneel beside and remember

That when a thing like this surrounds me i feel like something's found me it's a feeling that astounds me

No words could describe the warmth and the awe magically synchronized i take comfort in it all

There is no death there is no permanence there is no danger there ain't no consequence

But when a thing like this surrounds me
i feel like something's found me

just to make myself more comfortable or to hide inside
my youth

But when it's here my arms are open there is no fear there is no hoping

That when a thing like this surrounds me i'll feel like something's found me it's a feeling that astounds me
