I don't want to live a life pre-set
I want to read every letter of the alphabet

I want to try
I want to fly
'cause it makes me feel so alive

And I'll climb a tree, I'll chase the storm and never let my heart be torn
I'll run all night, I'll pass the test
'cause I am sure my heart is blessed

If only I could live my life each day
If only I keep my life this way
Realize beneath the sun
Life has only just begun
And keep the sunshine in my heart
Keep the sunshine

I don't want to fit into a square
I want to remove all boundaries like they were never there

I want to sing and be within it makes me stay so aware

And I'll climb a tree, I'll chase the storm
and never let my heart be torn
I'll run all night, I'll pass the test
'cause I am sure my heart is blessed

If only I could live my life each day
If only I keep my life this way
Realize beneath the sun
Life has only just begun
And keep the sunshine in my heart
Keep the sunshine

Comment by Frost:

This song is about doing the most out of life. I want to try things I didn't think I would dare to! The fact that I have released my songs, been performing on stage etc was something I never dared believe would happen. I was terrified before my first concert and I am still shivering before our concerts today, but I do it anyway and it feels great to overcome my fears - thus getting more out of life. A quite simple and naive song - but it's about the simple things in life... It also refers to the 80's and reminds me of my teens...
