On my way for the day I find no sorrow
Everyday is all the same there's no tomorrow
And I feel, like I feel
'Cause it's cold here where you left me

Hey I think that someday I might need you somehow
I, I think I might have loved you
These things I said but you were
A million miles away, a million miles away

On my way for the day I find my heart is not for taking
And I know it's all but gone, it only served to make me cry
And I feel like I feel
'Cause it's black here with your memory

Hey I think that someday I might need you somehow
I, I think I might have loved you
These things I said but you were
A million miles away, a million miles away, yeah
A million miles, a million miles
A million miles away, oh

These things I said but you were
A million miles, a million miles
Hey I think that someday I might need you somehow
I, I think I might have loved you
These things I said but you were
A million miles away

On my way for the day I find no sorrow
