Scarred, open wounds, the needle, it dances and glows through the skin.
All the lights that burn so bright and the light we see at night
The light has faded, through the windows
The light has faded, through the windows

Just try to destroy, friends, (caves), people you know, people you don't.
Walk the empty paces just to sleep away the days
The light has faded, through the windows

Well, let's go the waterfront where the kids all stare
into the air
Well, let's go the waterfront where the kids all stare
into the air
to wait for your breath to come
your breath to come
your breath to come
your breath to come

The fantasy of reality comes rushing through your head
Just a symphony of a restless dream taps through your finger tips

Well, let's go the waterfront where the kids all stare
into the air.
into the air
to wait for your breath to COME!
