well dear friend, I guess we both know the scene I see you and yourself placed in the corners of the ring those unforgiving memories travelling down your face winners and losers in a senseless race the first hit is to be forgiven but the second counts on you and if I'll shout out for a help here you should better shout out loud haunted head and heart

are we brothers in arms in different dreams, dreams long long gone and ruled by dead kings and queens a lot of things happen and there's nothing you can do the latest truth is a liar cause today is brandnew maybe sleep is a station but live is a train and if it will pass you better jump on again

you'll never kiss the world brandnew I hope you understand that in the end you're on your own and happy words are bland
