The boy in the iron mask with wire for brains
Is firing bows and arrows wherever he thinks it should rain
Yeah, he's drunk too much coffee once again

This could go in any direction
Any direction at all
This could go in any direction
Any direction at all

Our memories in the cupboard are getting up and walking
And there's life going on but we're too busy talking
What I am trying to say is that we're losing our way

But this could go in any direction
Any direction at all
This could go in any direction
Any direction at all

Some heart is always gonna to get broken
And somebody's always gonna to crack
Something is always gonna to be incomplete
But you have to stop this looking back

This could go in any direction
Any direction at all
This could go in any direction
Any direction at all

This could go in any direction
Any direction at all
Yeah, this could go in any direction
Any direction at all

Any direction
Any direction at all
This could go in any direction
Any direction at all

This could go in any direction
Any direction at all

Any direction
Any direction at all

Any direction
Any direction at all
This could go in any direction
Any direction at all
