Long long time ago
Shake off your shoes
Kick off your boots
This is what she said to me
The world is a possibility
And even though I've grown old
I still believe in
Everything she told to me

Sometimes I'm an invisible man
You can't see me
But can understand
I'm just one grain in your pile of sand
I never fit into your plan
And even though I've grown old
I still believe in
Everything she told to me

My grandma said when she took me aside
Gonna make minimal chances in life
Gonna make many mistakes this time
Just make sure you don't lose your mind
And even though I've grown old
I still believe in
Everything she told to me

You find yourself and that's for sure
Whether you're rich
Or whether you're poor
When the handle's broke
And open comes the door
Leave tonight, what ya waiting for?
And even though I've grown old
I still believe in
Everything she told to me

My grandma Mere is dead and gone
Me I'm still traveling on
Dark as night fades into dawn
Stars at night fade into morning time
And even though I've grown old
I still believe in

Everything she told to me

And even though I'm still young
I still believe in everything I've done
