Her eyes tell a story that
She's been through many wars
And the lines that are upon her face
Tell you she can't take no more

A shadow of her former self
That is all I see
And the beauty that she once possessed
Is now only skin deep, she's been

Leading a lonely life and she doesn't know
Where she's going she just don't know
And she says that now is the time
But she doesn't realize that the years have passed her by

There she goes
She's not the girl that I once used to know
There she goes
What happened to the girl with the golden glow

Makes no plans for tomorrow
'Cause she's living for today
She feels there is no future
And that's a crying shame

She's not the girl I used to know
Her eyes no longer shine
It's the life that she's been living
She's been through hard times, she's been

Leading a lonely life and she doesn't know
Where she's going, she just don't know
And she says that now is the time
But she doesn't realize that the years have passed her
by

There she goes
She's not the girl that I once used to know
There she goes
What happened to the girl with the golden glow

There she goes
She's not the girl that I once used to know
There she goes
And it doesn't seem to matter and it have no
[Incomprehensible]

There she goes
She's not the girl that I once used to know
There she goes

There she goes
What happened to the girl with the golden glow
