~English Translation~

You burn up the flesh that has changed so completely
And gently hold the torn body
The moon reflected in your eyes is faint
"There's... no going back" you repeated between sobs
noesis...
In the unchanging world
There's nothing to forgive; you are only staying alive

I hold you tight, and if you can sleep, I will give you peace
A quiet dream from which you will never wake

You're searching for warmth that you have forgotten so long ago
You only keep walking through the unending darkness

You hold the corpse close Confusing it with something that is broken beyond repair
The dancing blue flame shudders and trembles
"Who... can stop me?" you ask again and again
noesis...
In the unchanging world
There's nothing to forgive; you are only staying alive

If you are bound by lies, I will give you peace
In the pain that continues to cut into my heart
Only the memory that will not return is more precious than all else...

You will never touch that smile again
