"Day Of Sunday"

I need to talk to you
I need desperately to see you to sit and talk and later to walk together to the wind
I need to breathe the same air that surrounds you and I want to have burning on my skin the same sun that tans you I need to touch you and see you smiling again and then, to dive in a beautiful dream I can no longer live a meaningless sentiment I need to find out again the thrill of being with you I need to see the sun dawning and the life going by as if it was a day of Sunday pretend that it's still early and get up everything will happen by the will of the emotion pretend it is still early and let the voice of the heart flow
