lips of a lover
where an endless source of milk and honey flow mind for the people before a word is spoken all my needs are known he's just a regular guy tells the occasional lie he's got something to hide but then so do I eyes of a servant waiting hand and foot to give everyone more smile of a jackal that is feasting on the fat of its reward
he's just a regular guy tells the occasional lie
with a checkered past he cuts me slack he can feel my pain like a long lost friend I want someone who will be just like me

I want someone who can be just like me I want someone who will... never focus on the negative in life it's always handy when you cover up a crime mom and daddy love him everybody loves him he will never let us down
just like me...
