Three o'clock in the morning
Voice inside my head
I'm wide awake, I should be sleeping
Voice alive or dead

Someone screamin' out a warning
Should I heed the call?
A messenger I should be knowing
Voice inside my head

I made it through another year
Crying yet another tear
Pondering the endless questions of life

My undivided attention
Voice returns again
The pressure builds I feel the tension
Voice inside my head

What should I do with all you've given?
Discern the ring of truth
I'm not the kind to be so driven
The choice is up to you

I made it through another year
Cryin' yet another tear
Pondering the endless questions of life

Made it through another year
Cryin' yet another tear
Pondering the things I dream in the night

You know just what to say
Speak to me
You know just what to say
Speak to me

You know just what to say
Speak to me
You know just what to say
Speak to me

Three o'clock in the morning
Voice inside my head
A word of peace, my mind is soaring
Remember what He said

In the silence He is calling
Direction is made clear
A message to my heart imploring
Voice of God I hear

Made it through another year
Drove away another tear
Pondering the endless questions of life
Made it through another year

Pushed away another fear
Pondering the things, I dream in the night
In the night

Nothing's quite the same after You speak to me
Speak to me

Nothing's quite the same after You speak to me
Speak to me

Nothing's quite the same after You speak to me
Speak to me
