Welcome to this land and union we all call the European community welcome to this world the world of open trade and global networks for you and me and then we raise the walls to keep us safe and within

We are here, we here to make the choice of the future we want to live they are there, knocking on our doors to freedom and to opinions that is free but we close the doors to
and then we raise the walls

The market wants increase in economy and the fishermen claims their share the farmer protests for more benefits and the drivers strike for a raise

The industry wants to move to east where lower wages is bliss the much wants more mentality is the ultimate predominant dream it's the same old song

The values we spoke of solidarity are now words from a forgotten past just mind your own egoistic vanity in your soap TV false reality

Everyone got an opinion to state in debates in every media form what we really need is translate words in to deeds we have heard it all before still the same old song

In the 40's we fought the Great War young men lost their lives and souls for our conviction of a better world and to crush the evil hordes the dark side was spreading their beliefs of hatred and utopian dreams dissidents and coloured had no room a perfect world for a few

We put up the flag on the deadly shore and we fought we fought our way through the blood and dirt to be free

We climbed the Omaha beach it was a bloody way we had to reach to free the occupied turf to give democracy fresh new birth when we came back from the war we set out some grand new goals to unite the euro lands and together we all should stand

We put up the flag on this virgin land and we took the first steps of freedom on this friendly shore no more war, no war no war...
