All I ate was spearmint candy
Trying to change the flavor of the days
And chasing inundation only childish ways

But oh this time the sugar was dazzling
Saying for once you might just join the game
And don't insist on always seeming less the same

With the smile and of the clique
Princess, in this context you're a freak
But you must see
In your crassest hour the charm still works on me

And will you take on our age's dream
We love you Carol and Alison
Oh will you take us
'Cause it's still a green land
And it still works as planned
And 'cause the glory is at hand

These evenings turn out to be such a crapshoot
Don't be such a reason not to leave
Cause I smoke and kiss the same in all realities

And when they ask who's giving the rides
I feel as if I promised I'd look out
For all the lonely souls who still go home without

When the shoulder upstairs gets cold
If he had his way we'd all be old
And he's got nerve
Asking this Lolita nation to bow and serve

And will you take on our age's dream
We love you Carol and Alison
Oh will you take us
'Cause it's still a green land
And it still works as planned
