He who found a way to leave to somewhere far from now Traveling in his time machine a dream that had come true
Fly my friend, you will see, something called reality
I feel good, I'm alright, doing what I please - I travel time
Far beyond the rising sun - I ride the winds of fate Prepared to go where my heart belongs - back to the past again
I just want to save the universe for all mankind
He wants to save the future of the earth Step by step surroundings change as years go passing by
He only stops to gaze a little while I push the button further on, I just can't get enough I know I will return again but still I'm movin' on Far beyond the rising sun - I ride the winds of fate
Prepared to go where my heart belongs - back to the
past again
As I movin' on I see things to come,
I see fears and I hear laughter Curiosity, comin' over me,
What is destined and what will happen
And I see the lies and I hear the cries
And the marchin' of the people As they go to war, heaven knows what for - God I think I've had enough now Too late, too late - I can't go back no more!
I lost control of the engine
No light, no light - Can't see where I have gone can't see where I have gone to Where am I now -
Stranded in time
So many years have passed since I had gone
And I have seen what's gonna be But now I know it is useless to travel on And I will return to the time and peace I belong to Far beyond the rising sun - I ride the winds of fate
Prepared to go where my heart belongs - back to the
past again

Far beyond the rising sun - I ride the winds of fate
Prepared to go where my heart belongs - back to the
past again
