I drive my car up to the lake as if there's someone to awake.

I haven't been to bed for days,

I live in a twilight haze.

I set my heart to the setting sun

and hope that no one else has done it.

The drinks are never far, open up the bar.

I miss you every single day.

I wait until the stars go away.

I hate the way I've strayed into these perfect days.

And I love the way your fingers pop.

I drive my car up to the lake

as if theres someone to a wake

The drinks are never far, open up the bar.

I miss you every single day.

Wait until the stars go away.

I hate the way I've strayed into these perfect days.

Love the way your fingers pop

Love the way your fingers pop

I miss you every single day.

I wait until the stars go away.

I hate the way I've strayed into these perfect days.

I miss you every single day.

I wait until the stars go away.

I hate the way I've strayed into these perfect days.

And I love the way your fingers pop.
