Album: Watchfires

Won't you see with, see with my eyes
Won't you speak with my voice
Won't you free them
Release them so they'll know
Won't you lead them
They have the choice

In this house that's built of You
We come with daggers beneath the roof
In this house we'll search for truth
And we'll leave our daggers

Won't you go out and meet them where they are
Won't you greet them with your scars
Won't you bring them an endless source of light
Won't you trade the, trade their scales for sight

In this house that's built of You
We come with daggers beneath the roof
In this house we'll search for truth
And we'll leave our daggers

Won't you sing them silent words of truth
Won't you find them
To remind them of their youth
Won't you listen to all they might say
Won't you earn them
And learn them toward the day

In this house that's built of You
We come with daggers beneath the roof
In this house we'll search for truth
And we'll leave our daggers
