Album: Watchfires

Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again

Does anybody know this man
Can anybody understand
How long it is the road
We've come today
Days now wrapped in silence
I wonder what is this violence
That keeps his mouth locked shut
And his tounge at bay

Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again

Senor I have a question
In you is there a lesson
A story wrapped so tight
That you need share
You've got the trusted ears of strangers
You've escaped your recent dangers
So tell me what in this life
We need beware

Please excuse my insolence
I mean nothing here to offend
Though my eyes don't blink
Yes my mind does think
That in you I've found a friend
Please accept my innocence
I'll do nothing more this day
When I was lost you were the cost
That I knew I would surely pay

Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again

Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again

Instrumental Break

Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down
The mountain once again
