80 miles from Bristol
I was hoping you'd call
How could I resist the chance
To take such a fall?

I was blinded
I was blinded again
You were high
On something new and different

Tell me you're joking
That I would follow you here
Just to watch you disappear
When this love is broken
Is there any other kind?
I only know one side

Hours away from New York
I can't finish a thought
How could I resist a chance
At impossible?

I was prying
I was prying again
You were dying
For somebody to listen
For someone who would listen

Tell me you're joking
That I would follow you here
Just to watch you disappear
When this love is broken
Is there any other kind?
I only know one side

I know how this will end
But you give enough
To keep me hoping

So tell me you're joking
That I would follow you here
Just to watch you disappear

When this love is broken
Is there any other kind?
I only know one side

80 miles from Bristol
I was hoping you'd call
But you never call
