How does your world look today
From behind your bedroom shade
Are you ready to give way
You're running low on sympathy
From a space just out of reach
In a comfortable misery

Your foundation has been shaken
So you got a story no one else can claim
No more waiting, no more warning
Somethin's gotta change

You're hiding out from all your friends
There are no words they can send
Nothing you have interest in
You're hoping for a chance to cheat
Your way back to the main street
When your lesson's somewhere in between

Your foundation has been shaken
So you got a story no one else can claim
No more waiting, no more warning
Somethin's gotta change

How does your world look today
Now that you can finally say
Your recovery is on its way, hey, hey?

Your foundation has been shaken
So you got a story no one else can claim
No more waiting, no more warning
Somethin's gotta change
