Towers floating on sea of ghosts;
Downtown Los Angeles.
I saw the Parthenon on cotton clouds
Coming over the hill.

Trapped a dragon west of Chinatown
For fire-eaters up in Hollywood.
She said,
"My little sister took a picture of God
And floated away."

When your hands are broken,
When your words are slipping,
Put your arms around him
And go
Down.

Hide your money in the other hand --
Observations of a regular.
Towers floating on a seat of ghosts;
It's always the same,
I told you:
