Seldom do I get to tell you this moment always slips away Lock the door cause it's time to turn the lights down and listen to what I say

I'm gonna tell you what you mean to me and when I'm done I hope you'll see

That they can take the romance from a lovers moon Take the warmth from a sunrise in June, take a melody, yet take that tune and I'd still get by Take the magic from children's hearts take the sounds of laughter just leave me bread and water and you

They can put me out on the street take my money take the shoes off my feet place my head on a rock lay me down to sleep and I'd still get by Take the shirt off my back if they want leave me naked and cold if they must but don't take my bread and water or you

I'd give my hopes and I'd give my dreams If they'd have to have it all there's just three things I need

Take my pride, take my dignity last of all take my memories with what's left of me I'd say with my final breath I'd pray for bread and water
and you

And I'd tell you what I'd do I'd give it all and more it's true even bread and water for you
