The Reverend Mother went and got me a drink
She came back and said to me "Well what do you think"
I said "I've made myself a fool
For the naughtiest girl in school"
Chorus:
How can I deal with this hurt I feel inside?
I tell it to the mother of the bride
I put on my suit and smile for the big day
But I couldn't watch as her dad gave her away
And as they solemnly said "You'll do"
Her mother said "That should have been you"
Chorus
At the mercy of the moon
The boy who spoke too soon
She married him and destroyed all my hopes
Of a two-up, two-down, two point five and a dish on the roof for the soaps
But I saw them at the hardware store
He looked boring and she looked bored
Chorus
It's nice to know that someone was on my side
Best wishes to the mother of the bride.
